

A statement to the Animal Health Trust's suppliers and business associates

Sunday 22 March 2020

We are devastated to announce that following a period of dire financial constraints, and now with the economic implications of Covid-19 having a direct effect on funding, the Animal Health Trust (AHT) is facing imminent closure.

The AHT's Trustees and Executive Committee continue to seek out emergency funding in order to save the charity but without an urgent input of funds, the charity is likely to close on 31 March 2020.

We understand that this will be extremely worrying for our suppliers of goods and services at a time when UK businesses are already suffering unprecedented difficulties. However, we would ask that you bear with us whilst we are trying to resolve this situation. If you have any concerns regarding payment for services or contracted work, please email info@aht.org.uk. Although we will be unable to respond immediately, we will reply as soon as we can.

As the situation develops, we will update this message regularly.
